Description

A khudrang rug is made using only natural wool and is not dyed. Khudrang simply means "its own colour"

The naturalistic look of these stools makes them very easy to integrate seamlessly into almost any interior.

Afghanistan is the historical centre of hand made rugs in Asia, and the craftsmanship of rug weaving in Afghanistan dates back millennia. The rugs I use for my stools are ethically sourced from the conflict stricken regions and are made by small nomadic tribal village's. The unique craftsmanship skills are passed down through generations of family and each rug can take countless hours to make.

• Ethically sourced from conflict stricken tribes

• 100% wool

• Free UK delivery

• Worldwide delivery available (please get in touch prior to purchase for a delivery quote)

• The legs will be removed and will need fitting by yourself upon arrival by simply screwing them into the already fitted fixing plates.

Please let me know if you would like the legs stained in a colour of your choice!

112cm long

72cm wide
35cm high
