Description

A pair of 19th century country house armchairs by Jas Shoolbred. Raised on turned front legs with brass and ceramic casters. One chair with the casters stamped Shoolbred.

Both chairs in good solid shape with new frame up traditional upholstery and finished in striped ticking ready for a new top cover. The back and seat both sprung with a sprung front edge on the seat. The feather cushions are 100% down filled and are exceedingly comfortable.

As with all our upholstered seating we do offer upholstery should you wish. They could be used as is if you like the deconstruct look.
